Andrews Federal Launches New Online Debt Management Tool

Suitland, MD (August 14, 2009) – Andrews Federal Credit Union has launched a new online debt management tool called “Debt in Focus.” Debt in Focus, created by the Filene Research Institute, is a web-based tool to help people improve credit scores and better manage debt. The short program takes only about ten minutes to complete and provides users an in-depth analysis of their financial position. In the current economy, this tool is a great resource and offers free usage to members and other visitors to the Andrews Federal website.

“Andrews Federal is excited to offer the Debt in Focus web tool so that our members can better understand their current financial situation, gain valuable insight into their debt-to-income and revolving debt ratios, improve their credit, and reduce their debt,” says Suzanne Curren, Director of Public Relations & Community Development. “Andrews Federal continues to have a strong commitment to financial literacy through our online Education Center, financial seminars and community outreach.”
